CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—The election in Ohio was very quiet. In Cleveland the day was marked with no adventure. The Republicans generally felt sure that Foraker would be cut here and there by cautious citizens, who think two terms in the gubernatorial chair quite enough for any man, and by others who do not and never will believe that he was faithful to Sherman in D FURNITURE FOR urnished house of 10 rooms OURTH ST., between For yard, barn, etc.; possession ANT7-KOOM, 2-STORY SROOM COTTAGE, AT SANTA MONICA. sed complete; also p A-HOUSE HALL; om 2 OPERA-HOUSE. and by others who do not and never will believe that he was faithful to Sherman in the last convention. The Democrate feit confident that Campbell would suffer at the hands of those members of his party who swear by the ex-President and tariff reform. All this complicated the situation, and the Republicans were prepared to hear of foraker's election by a piurality not quite so large, perhaps, but equally convincing. The whicky question, too, cut no small figure in the contest. The impression prevalled that the brewers, distillers and dealers generally were Democrate this autumn, and many members of the Democratic party in favor of restricting the liquor traffic were quite content to vote the Republican ticket and thus defeat the supposed purposes of those men who seek to amend the present liquor laws. Here was indeed no logic of the situation. It was a plain case of unfathomable uncertainty.

Post:
"Rev. H. W. Dickerson, a colored minis-"Rev. H. W. This is the same precinct of the Six'h Ward, Petersburg, in which, at the late Presidential election, by the purposely distory process of the election judges—and they are the same now—two hundred and odd votes were shut out. BOSTON, Nov. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Today's experience seemed to prove beyond doubt the success of the Australian system of voting. NEW YORK. Nov. 6.—No election in New York for a dozen years has excited less public interest than that held today. State issues awoke slight interest, except in so far as Weuple. Democratic Comptroller, might fall behind his ticket. This proved to be nearly 4000. In a registration so large for an off year as it was, and with so good a proportion of the registered vote cast, the majority for the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State of over 60,000 indicated that the Democrats poiled a good, solid party vote, and the rebuke to Wemple cannot be considered very pronounced. The contest for State Senate was interesting. Col. Brown, Tammany nominee, defeated Col. Murphy (County Democracy), who on several previous occasions lowered the Tammany suffered defeat, Senator Thomas Grady being beaten by the Fusionist candidate, John T. Ahearn. In the Seventh, Ninth and Eleventh districts the Tammany candidates won. In the Eighth, Lispenard Steward (Rep.) defeated the Tammany nominee, for the Assembly the Democrats elected 20 and the Republicans 4. The County Democracy nominee, Fitzzeraid, defeated Gildersleeve, Tammany nominee, for Judge of the General Sessions. The new Board of Aldermen will show about the same relative Tammany strength as the Legislature.

The election at Brooklyn passed off quietly. The Democracis carried two out of three Senatorial districts, and 10 of the 12 Assembly Districts and elected the mayor, city and county ticket and 15 aldermen.

FURAKEL'S LOSSES.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—The loss by Foraker of Hamilton county, which gave him a plurality of nearly 7000 two years ago, has been largely effected by the defection in the German Republican wards. The losses in single precincs in some of these wards amount to more than 200 votes. This result was not anticipated by the Republicans. While the losses of Foraker were not confined to these wards they are much more mrked than in other portions of the city. Returns also show that specially in the German wards the head of the ticket was the thing most severely hit by Republican scratchers.

The Commercial Gazette, commenting on the result in Hamilton county, says: "It is the outgrowth of the Sunday question. The saloon legislation did not seem to be the disturbing thing, but rather bad administration of Sunday laws was the cause of the discontent among the Germans. The estimate at midulehr is that Campbell will carry Hamilton county by over 6000."

Four hundred and skuy-three precincts in Ohio outside of Hamilton county give Foraker 66 976, Campbeli 63.181, Heiwig 3534, The same in 1887 gave Foraker 65,788, Powell 35 65, Sharp 3532. This shows an average gain of ½ per cent, for Campbell, THE LEGISLATURE REFUBLICAN.

Ex Chairman C ppeller of the Republican committee feels confident that F-raker is elected. He does not conceed Hamilton county to the Democrats by more than 4000 votes, and says the Democratic gains elsewhere in the State must average five and a half votes to elect Campbell. He is sure the Republicans will gain in the county districts. The Republicans claim they have the Legislature surely.

PITTSBURGH (Pa.). Nov. 5.—At midnight a dispatch from Senator Quay says: "The latest advices make Ohio very close, and Virginia is Democratic."

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—The Enquirer claims the election of Campbell by a slight majority, but concedes the election of the State Democratic committee, estimates the majority at over 25,000, with a fair prospect of it being a largely increased. The Legislature is over two-thirds Democratic gains throughout the State, and that McKinney is elected.

Climatic conditions in this locality, for instance, are so unlike meas in mearly all the ceuntries where the utilization of sewage for irrigating purposes has received the most careful, intelligent and extended investigation, favored by unlimited means, and extending over long pariods, so that by measured stages of systematic and practical experience, such knowledge has been obtained as to provide us with reliable statistics, applicable more especially to the continent of Europe than here.

upon in this report, as the subject is so large that it would be impracticable to consider more than applies properly to our case. In other countries the main effort has been directed to ridding sewage of its solid matter and turning the supernatant liquid into the nearest waterway or outlet to get rid of it, while here, on the contrary, it is desired to accomplish ust the opposite—get rid of the less valuable solid matter and use the highly valuable liquid. The reason for this is that most other countries have rains and moisture sufficient to raise their crops, and do not need irrigation, while with us, artificial watering by irrigation is a necessity, and what would damage them, works wonders in fruitful products to us. In view of this proposition, our problem of sewage disposal is reduced to the accomplishment of producing a fair liquid result by precipitation, straining or filtration. The elimination of storm drainage from the sewage matter, and the water-carrier system is contemplated in this consideration.

tion. The elimination of storm drainage from the swage matter, and the water carrier system is contemplated in this consideration.

Ordinary lands cannot likely be properly or healthily irrigated with rwa swage as it come from the swage used to the early store that it may all be utilized before fermentation and decomposition begins, which usually results in about 24 hours. A portion of the solid matter is in the form of fiber, and silmes, and ritches aloop waste, carries grease and fast, i.and irrigated and manured with this raw material in some cases becomes clonged and sewage-soaked. The fibrous material mixed with the fats forms an earth felt impervious to further absorption. The pores of the soll can as longer act. Sun heas and capillary attraction cease to aerate the stifled earth, decomposition of such particles as have been absorbed ceases, and the soil is with difficulty restored to its former vitality, even by rest or subs- quent irrigation. In sport, the Vermon lands show this to some extent, but not in a striking manner. Originally a limited area of land was irrigated; presently the pipes and ditches were extended, until now they are far-reaching; and, cae cording to the testimony adduced before this commission, we, believe raw sewage cannot be successfully or asfely used, and in that case begind the serious questions to be constitued in the construction of the population of 200,000, and unless solids were separated frem the sewage is would be difficult to estimate the number of acress the utmost care and precautions to be constitued that the serious questions to be constitued to the constituent of the construction of the population of 200,000, and unless solids were separated frem the sewage is would be difficult to estimate the number of acress the utmost care and precautions to the constituent of the construction of the population of 200,000, and unless solids were separated frem the sewage is would be difficult to estimate the number of acress it would take in addition to use up the output of the

This table presents the following highly important facts, viz: No organic matter is precipitated except such as was present in an insoluble form and which might just as well have been retained by mechanical filtration.

The small amount of ammonia retained in the sludge is due entirely to insolubility. Potash, another valuable ingredient at least to some soils, being soluble, also goes off with the liquid.

Phosphoric acid is precipitated (five-sixths), forms with the lime an insoluble compound and therefore is virtually an inert form for future absorption by plant life. It will now be in order to see what can be done with the material. If it could be cheanly or successfully desiceated and matter of the fireways to the sight. It also appears that it would be more prudent to appear any form of sewage waste over small scattered areas or farms than to concentrate it on one large ranch. If, as has been claimed, it is advantageous, it would be better to have that benefit distributed among small farmers who would, by this means, settle and build up waste and present unprofitable poor lands, than to curich large ranch owners. Small farmers would also likely take better care of the lands by reason of living on them, and for their own protection not allow any huisance to occur by carelessness and inattention.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

First.—That the city, if it makes any contract for the disposal of its raw sewage for irrigating purposes to any company, reserves the right to acquire any spiant that may be erected for its precipitation, clarification, filtration or treatment, by giving dive years' notice to said company or individuals, to whore a franchise may be granted for a longer term. And that such company, their successors or assigns, shall sell their plant and appurtenances to the city in such case at a sum to be agreed upon by two commissioners, one to be appointed by the City Council and one by the said company, and in case of a disagreement a third commissioner to be selected by the two. That such company shall blind itself in any sontract made with the city, for the erection of plant and appurtenances, not to acquire any patented processes alexorbitant cost, and that he such purchase, as to cost and advisability, the City Council of the city of Los Angeles shall have an equal voice.

Second—Your committee is of the opinion that the city should fully control the purification and handling of the sewage. That it should derive any benefits therefrom, if benefit there be, and if it proves otherwise than advantageous, it is not within the province of this committee to consider a remedy.

Third—That in case of any irremediable nuisance being created by the courts to be detrimental to health, leave to submit the following report:

From the best information we have been able to obtain in the limited time we have had to devote to the subject, we are of the opinion that the so-called storm drains are detrimental to health and, therefore, the use as such would be against the best interests of the city. We believe that the damage from storm water has been greatly enhanced by its concentration in certain localities. We conceate that storm drains are needed to a certain extent, but we believe that, with a proper distribution of the storm water, and the expenditure of a reasonable sum of money, the danger from any great amount of damage resulting from such storm water could be averted for some time to come.

We therefore recommend that a sum not o exceed $50,000 be used for the construc-We therefore recommend to exceed $50,000 be used for the construction of storm-water drains separate and distinct from the sewer system, and that the said sum be used in the construction of said drains in locations where, in the judgment of the City Council, the best interests of the city demand.

J. R. Toberman,
L. N. Breed.

A minority report of the Storm Drain Committee was then read, as follows: The undersigned has been unable to give the question of storm-water drains such consideration as he would like, but the recollection of the effect of many heavy rainstorms during the last seven years upon many of the streets and most of the property of our city leads him to urge the construction of such drains. The belief also that only engineering skill and experience is competent to prescribe either the character or cost of such drains induces him to defer any recommendation in this respect to such skill and experience. It seems to him especially unwise to confine the sum to be expended for this purpose to any amount not previously estimated by competent engineers as sufficient for at least the temporary necessities, as greater damage is frequently done by incomplete systems of A minority report of the Storm Drain tent engineers as smideent for at least the temporary necessities, as greater damage is frequently done by incomplete systems of sewage drainings, etc., than by no system at all. The undersigned has confidence in the intention of the Council and City Engineer to do all in their power in regard to storm drains for the best interests of the public and feels that their judgment in the matter is authorized and controlled by the best advice to be had on the subject. He is therefore disposed to trust the whole matter, especially so in view of the fact that no other than an extended study of the subject could render any committee competent to make a report upon it of material value.

The Committee on Interior Service reported as follows:
Your committee beg to offer the following as a supplementary report:

The jury retired for consultation late in the afternoon, and returned a verdict in a few minutes for the plaintiff, fixing the damages at $5000. They were obliged to make their verdict on spe-cific charges, the mjuries being speci-fied in quite a number of counts.

The enormous scale upon which English financial transactions are carried out is again instanced in the dispatch published this morning from the first that the graph owners of 250,000,000 Peruvian bonts relinquish their securities as a claim on Peru in return for a contract to last 65 years, whereby the interests of all the guano denosits not now owned by the guano deposits not now owned by Chili are turned over to representa-tives of English bondholders.

We publish this morning a series of complete and interesting dispatches from the States in which elections were held yesterday, to which reports we refer our readers.

In Ohio the Legislature seems to be Republican. The Republican Executive Committee claims this, and thinks that Foraker may pull through by a small majority. While John Sherman showed his magnanimity and loyalty to his party by coming from Europe to work, not especially for Mr. Foraker, but for the Republican ticket, there are undoubtedly many Republican voters in Ohio who have been unable to forget Mr. Foraker's treatment of the great Ohio Senator in the last Republican National Con-

In Iowa, where the liquor question assumed much prominence, the Democrats made very substantial gains. The Republicans claim that later returns will give Hutchison a small plurality.

Virginia goes Democratic, with large gains for that party. Massachusetts is very close, the Republicans believing that Brackett has a small plurality. Nebraska is Republican by 18,000 to 20,000 majority, and New York-in which State very little interest was in some manifested-has gone Democratic by about 10,000.

MR. WATERMAN has not yet wouch ested the Insane Commissioners any further information on the asylum site question. The commissioners are getting restive, and still promise all unpleasant disclosures. Mr. Brown says that it is of no use for Mr. or anyone else, to offer asite in Los Angeles county, as the Governor gave the commission to understand that he would absolutely refuse to consider any offer made outside of San Bernardino county. If this is true, we have a right to ask why is it so? The law creating the asylum provides only that it shall be located some-Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Diego or San Bernardino, and for the purpose of selecting a site a commissioner is appointed from each of fall recognize the value of a proper these counties. What right has the Governor to come out and declare that he will restrict his approval to a site in one only of these counties-the count in which he resides? Of course, it is barely possible that Mr. Waterman's object in doing this was to secure for the unfortunate insane what he may believe to be the best climate in South ern California-that of San Bernardine county. It is possible, but not very probable-so improbable, in fact, ve venture to that we venture to say that nobody will believe it. If Mr. Waterman really made such a statement as this, the citizens have a right to know it. and to ask him to explain how he can sworn duty. Mr. Brown has made a very serious charge against the Govwhich the latter cannot well

REPORTS ON SEWAGE

In other columns will be found reports of sub-committees of the Sewage Committee on Utilization, on Interior Service and on Storm Drains.

The report on utilization is the longest and most important. It recognizes the proper disposal of the sewage of towns as a subject of great difficulty.

The impossibility of irrigating lands with raw sewage is asserted at the outset. The solids must be separated from the fluids. In other countries, the fluids are a nuisance, to be got rid of. Not so here, where every drop of water is invaluable. Some outside reports, dealing slightingly with the value of sewage, are referred to, but on the other hand the testimony of those who have used it upon the sandy soils near this city is cited, which tesimony shows that it has enhanced the value of lands from $2 to $25 per acre in the rental income therefrom per year. The sub-committee makes six

As announced by the management yesterday morning, Miss Helen Marr Bennett, the well-known elocutionist, gave an exhibition of the Delsarte movements. Her appearance attracted the attention of every one present, and the artistic and graceful motions which she went through, and also the attitudes assumed by the lady gained for her a decided approval.

The saxaphone solo, "Alice, Where Art Thou?" was given by W. F. Arend in a masterly manner and was received with great applause. recommendations, the main points of which are as follows: 1. Should any contract be made by the city for the disposal of its raw sewage to any company, the city shall re-serve the right to acquire any plant that may be erected for its precipitation or treatment. 2. The city should fully control the purification and handling of the sew-age and derive any benefits therefrom, of benefits there be.

3 and 4. These recommendations being the subject of further comment, we give them in full, as follows:

we give them in full, as follows:

Third—That in case of any irremediable nulsance being created by the use of sewage matter for irrigation, or should any local plant for separating the solids from the liquid be deciared by the courts to be detrimental to health, and a mandatory order be issued for its discontinuance, and should methods of treatment be ineapable of rectifying the evil, the city or said company would be powerless to comply with the order, and any company handling the sewage could not abate what might be judged a public nulsance without a ready outlet to the ses.

Fourth—An acquisition of lands for treating stations, in connection with a right of way to the ocean, should be secured by condemation or purchase, and should the sewage output be disposed of to any company, then the city to lease to them the ground on which the treating station was situated, with the use of the treating station ground and sea output sewer under proper restrictions.

5. The city should not own or ope-

5. The city should not own or operate any sewer farm, but dispose of the products of sewage treatment.

6. This recommendation, after referring to the great possible future value of this material, says:

of this material, says:

"It is deemed a duty to respectfully impress upon the authorities of the city, who will soon be called upon to dispose of the question, that there may be great worth and tre sure in it if wisely, judiciously and prudently handled and disposed of, and we further believe the city should erect works for its treatment and disposal to land-owners, as many processes are free for them to use without any costly patent process or machinery, and only require good judgment and skill in their selection and management."

This report is signed by John P. Culver and Theo. Summerland. The other three members of the committee, A. H. Judson, George W. Knox and H. Sinsabaugh, add a footnote before ap-conclusions as amended by us but would distinctly explain our approval of the turn and formth conclusions by saying that we first favor alternative methods of disposition of the purified sewer water; but if, after fair trial, they shall prove impracticable or unsatisfactory, an outfall sewer to the ocean would become an imperative necessity, but it should be used only to carry away the purified sewing water, so so to avoid a nulsance upon the ocean shore.

In regard to the third recommendation of the sub-committee.

the ocean would become an imperative necessity, but it should be used only to carry away the purified sewage water, so as to svoid a nuisance upon the ocean shore.

In regard to the third recommendation of the sub-committee, we may be permitted to remark that a conclusion is jumped at too readily when it is stated that there would be no other means of abating a nuisance than by an outlet to the sea. This is not so. Should the first attempt at sewage deodorization prove faulty, other methods might be tried. As to the fourth recommendation, there can be no objection to the acquisition of aright of way for an ocean outlet, to hold in view of possible future contingencies.

In connection with this report, it by a majority of the committee. The Committee on Interior Service. after reciting the routes which sewer should follow, recommends that streets upon which, sewers are constructed be taxed $1 per foot on each side, except in some localities, where it would work a hardship, to cover which cases $200,000 expenditure by the city is recommended.

The Committee on Storm Drains is of the opinion that storm drains are detrimental to health and recommends that only $50,000 be used for such drains. This report is signed by J. R. Toberman and L. N. Breed. A minority report, signed by E. W. Jones. indorses the storm water estimates of the City Engineer.

The Committee on Outfall Sewers asked further time until today.

Taken as a whole, the reports are very favorable to the system of deodorization of sewage under control of the city, with a view to its subsequent one of the five counties of sale for utilization. The general report will undoubtedly place this matter in a strong light. Even those few of the committeemen who favor an outsystem of utilization.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.-The second per formance of Caprice given by Miss Minnie Maddern was not honored by the attendance of the large audience it deserved. The house was not half filled, but the play was given with all the vim and earnestness that might have been expected if a great crowd had been present. The audience soon warmed into the spirit of the story, and the various paints were applauded again and again.

Miss Maddern's playing grows in interest;
Miss Maddern's playing grows in interest; First Presbyterian Church in the pres-ence of a number of relatives of both the bride and groom, and also many of the members of the police force. After-Miss Maddern's playing grows in interest; she is so sympathetic and unaffected, so perfectly natural in her movements, and so graceful withat, that she easily captures her audience. Her volee is low-pitched and, even in the utterance of the phrases in which, during the first three acts, she depicts the ignorance of the liliterate country girl, the lines are given with so much sweetness of expression it ceases to be a matter of wonder that "Jack" will go to housekeeping on Court street falls so desperately in love with her. Her acting in the scene where she comes on in a wonderful bridal costume of sucient design was excellent, with its suggestive touches and innocent pathos.

The whole performance is artistic to a degree that has not been seen on the boards of the open-house for a long time. The play is a clean, wholesome comportion, and it is a matter of surprise that while people will crowd to the exhibition of such pieces as La Tusca, the purity of "Mercy Baxter," with her marvelously well-rendered story, will not fill the benches to overflowing. Our people are alow to them, and probably about the time Miss Madderu is ready to leave they will be crowding to see her. Caprice for the last time tonight. Fugitive Apaches Still Large.

Returned Good for Evil. On Monday night Tom Butler became involved in a row with his fatherin-law at their home on Temple street over some trivial matter, and the affair over some trivial matter, and the affair became quite a savage one. Tom got the best of it, but was interrupted in his work of pounding the old gentleman's face to a jelly by the sudden and unexpected appearance of Officer Marden, who lodged him in the city jail on the charge of battery.

The case was tried by Judge Owens, who found him guilty and administered a sentence of $30 or 30 days. He did not have the cash necessary to secure his release, but later in the day his father-in-law put in an appearance and paid the fine.

The Huonker Baby Again.

Appie Walters was arrested by Officer Wright, at her home, No. 536 East Eighth atreet, yesterday, on a warrant sworn to by Christina Huonker, who, it will be remembered, caused quite a sensation some months ago by leaving her baby on the door-step, in front of its father's office, on Fort street. Shortly after this episode the infant was placed in charge of Annie Weltert Shortly after this episode the infant was placed in charge of Annie Walters. The mother was informed that the child was not receiving proper attention and nourishment, and swore out a warrant in Justice Savage's court and had the woman brought up there for trial. The case was called two or three days ago, and the Judge dismissed the charge because there was no prosecuting attorney present. The mother then swore out the complaint in the Police Court, on which the Walters woman was arrested. She is ters woman was arrested. THE EFFECTS OF HIS TRIAL TELLING ON HIM.

The Hard-fought Legal Battle Goe Steadily Forward-Testimony as to Tweedy's Previous Rem Menace Wheeling?

The Wheeling murder trial was not productive of any sensational feature esterday. The defense was engaged all day in presenting testimony as to the character of the parties in the case They had a number of witnesses who swore that Wheeling and Hereford bad good reputations, and Gentry and William Tweedy, the murdered bad reputations. Several of the witnesses were recalled as many as and five times, and nearly all of them were more or less cut up by Mr. Gage n his cross-examination. The attendance of spectators was even larger yes terday than at any preceding day of the trial, a number of ladies being present. The defendant begins to show signs of the tremendous mental strain he is under. He looks thinner and almost haggard, and watches every utterance of the witnesses with a gloomy expression of countenance. His face, like that of Mrs. Tweedy, widow of the deceased never lights up with a smile deceased, never lights up with a smile or even the ghost of a smile. His counsel are making, a painstaking struggle to save their their client, but it must be said that witnesses have not stood the test so far in carrying out not stood the test so far in carrying out the opening statements by Mr. Shinu.
J. A. Covert, a farmer, testified that he lived five or six miles from Tweedy and Hereford, and knew both families, also knew Roney Crane. Tweedy, Crane, Wheeling and Hereford came to his home in October, 1888, to attend a school election. The question being put to the witness as to whether or not Wheeling and Hereford left when Tweedy arrived, not wishing to meet him, the Court sustained an objection to it. The Court would not permit the defense to bring out similar testimony in regard to other occurrences of a like in regard to other occurrences of a like that he was as big a coward as old Hereford. It was in this conversation that Tweedy said Wheeling had better not cross his path. He said that Wheeling had a bad eye and he did not trust him. Upon another occasion the witness testified Tweedy said to him that he would starve out Hereford before the end of the year.

Henry Hughes, residing at Elizabeth Lake, testified that he heard Tweedy, in 1888, make threats against Wheeling and Hereford, threatening to shoot them. He was asked on cross-examination if he had not mentioned to people that he regarded Tweedy as a nice man, and that he had never heard him make a threat against any one. him make a threat against any one. He replied that he did not recollect having so spoken.

Jacob S. Wall testified that on one occasion he heard Twerdy offer Roney Crans $5 if he would whip Wheeling.

Louis Miet was recalled, and was examined at length in regard to his movements at the time of the shooting. He had been in the blacksmith shop shortly before, but was not there at the time of the shooting. He was coming toward the shop when the shots were fired, and saw Tweedy come stagwere fired, and saw Tweedy come staggering out of the shop to the corner, where he crouched down. The witness did not see the cold-chisel on the ground at that spot. He testified that Tweedy was very drunk the night before the shooting, and was drunk at the time he was shot. He testified that, as he came out of the shop after being shot, he believed him to be drunk. This was the most damaging piece of evidence elicited by the cross-examination during the day, because the more the during the day, because the more the defense admits that Tweedy was drunk the darker becomes the crime.

Dr. Maynard was recalled and testified that Tweedy was a little quarrelsome. He considered his reputation as a dangerous and quarrelsome man bad. A. S. Waldron and several other witnesses testified to the same effect. There were repeated tilts between counsel and at one time Judge Cheney broke out savagely upon Mr. Gage upon some point in regard to the admission of evidence, Mr. Gage having ventured to differ with the Court up the matter. It was quite a spirited passage at arms, but was soon over. The case will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

POPE INNOCENT VII. (Cosime de Migliorapi) was born in Solmona, Italy, and early became learned in the civil and canon law. Pope Urban VI. appointed him to aumerous high offices, and finally created him Archbishep of Ravenna and Bishop of Bologna. Migliorapi was created a cardinal and legate by Boniface IX., whom he succeeded to the papacy in 1404. His nephew Ludovico murdered one of the leaders of the city party, which crime compelled the Pope to fly to Viterbo in August, 1405. Innocent VII., died suddenly November 6, 1408, under strong suspicion of poison.

one of the most remarkable instances of transmitted ability is furnished by the Scoth family of Gregory, no less than 16 members of which nave held processorships at the various Scottish universities. One of the most celebrated men who have borne this honorable name is JAMES GREGORY, who was born in 1638. He was educated at Aberdeen, where he exhibited marvelous talents for mathematics, and in his 23d year published his famous works, "Optica Promota," in which he made known his great discovery, the Gregorian reflecting telescope. Gregory subsequently published several valuable works, and was successively professor of mathematics at St. Andrews and Edinburgh. Late in October, 1675, he was showing some of his students, with his reflecting telescope, the satellite of Jupiter, when he was suddenly stricken with blindness, and died shortly atter, November 6, 1676, aged 37 years.

WHAT SHE HAS DONE FOR CHRISTIANITY.

Fine Churches, Earnest Workers-A City of Good Morals-Distinguished Divines-One of the City's Attractions.

When the head of a family proposes to move from one city to another there are several questions that engross his attention. One is, what are the educational advantages; another as to the sanitary conditions, and a third as to the moral tone of the community. When rapid transit is a fixed fact these questions will be of interest to many ersons, and it is a matter of congrat lation that Pasadena can answer all those in a way that will more than satisfy the most exacting critic. Today, when our churches are crowded, our

Story: "There is no place like Pasadena."

Looking at the new wooden electric light poles that are going up, from a purely artistic standpoint, one is, to put it mildly, disappointed. They fall into line with the square tree and the vegetable nine pin that still find place in the country.

The small fruit industries of this city are going to be important. The slope back of Glen Rosa has been sold to a strawberry raiser, and hundreds of plants have been set out that will give our eastern guests a supply of ripe frait during the Christmas holidays.

The position of Gov. Waterman in the Insane Asylum case has occasioned much comment here, though it is known Pasadena is out of the race. It is the general opinion that, while it is a case of lengthened sweetness long drawn out, the Governor is determined that the State shall have his choice, if it takes all winter and an extra panel of commissioners. "Strictly business" evidently applies to asylums.

PASADENA is a city of churches, and her moral tone is the outcome in a great measure of the development of this feature that will grow and increase as the field grows larger. The Temperance Union, and many more societies are continually when our churches are crowded, our streets thronged with Sunday-school scholars, and thoughts are more strongly brought to matters of religious life, The Times answers one of the sequeries by referring in this choice, if the country.

When a student's Curie Times and the moral atmosphere of the city pure. When a student of crime visities city energly consults the blotter of the Chist of Police and glances into the jail. This would show a curious state of things here. The jail is uncompleted to a strawberry raise, and thoughts are more strongly brought to matters of religious life, The Times answers one of these queries by referring in this echoice, in the student of crime visities actively consults the blotter of the Chist of Police and glances into the jail. This would show a curious state of things here. The jail is uncompleted to the p

THE CROSS ROAD.

THE CROSS ROAD.

The Situation in Garvanza—The Sait Lake Route.

A Times reporter took a ride last evening down toward Garvanza to have the content of the most distinguished divines of New York. Not far away is the artistic stone church of the Episcopalians, All Saints, who are fortunate in being guided by the Rev. Mr. Ottman—a man of great influence among the people. Over on Raymond avenue is the Universalist Church—a monument to its people. Here the Rev. E. L. Conger presides, and looks out of his study window upon the mountains. evening down toward Garvanza to notice the progress of work on the Cross goad. The bridge which will span the arroyo is now being built, one-fourth being already completed. The main street through the town has been dug down about two feet, and on a hard bed of clay reaching from the watering trough to a point within less than 100 feet of the bridge the ties have been scattered along and a rail for a narrow-gauge road spiked down. The presence of the road renders the greet the situation. It can be plainly seen that Capt. Cross has only laid the rails for a game of "bluff," intending, of course, to replace them with heavy ones when the shipment arrives.

In connection with the lease of the Altadena Railroad, the Cross branch, it is said, will build stations on Colorado and Mary streets at Mountain avenue.

The next scheme, which is a Salt Lake deal, is to extend the road across the arroyo at Eaton's Cafnon and east to Azusa. Thence up the San Gabriel Caffon to the Mojave Desert east of the carge of Prof. O. Stewart Taylor.

movement, in Pasadena. The first settlers here were church people, and some kind of service was held from the first. The first meeting, I believe, was held August 30, 1874, on the corner of Orange Grove and Mountain avenues. It was a prayer-meeting, and those present were Rev. and Mrs. Mosher, W. T. Clapp, Miss Jennie H. Clapp, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum and Mr. and Mrs. Blix. The population of Pasadena at that time was but 50. From here the little congregation moved to Mr. Mosher's, then to the first school-house, which was built in the winter of 1875. The first Sunday-school was held in 1874, at Mr. Mosher's, Mr. Clapp and Mr. Pike being leaders in the movement.

Mr. Mosher was the first pastor, and the church gradually grew in strength and numbers, and the names of White, Haley, Mitchel, Noble, Baker, Crawford, Cornelius and Ormiston are identified with its growth up to the present at large and influential congregation, and in its church societies reaches out in every direction to do good.

The new church was reared under the pastorate of Mr. Cornelius, and when he responded to a call in San

The Episcopal Church was first represented by Rev. Henry H. Messenger, who preached in San Gabriel. Later Dean True came. The Pasadena Episcopalians built the chapel on Colorado street, which has now been superseded by the elegant North Euclid-avenue structure. This church has a large congregation, and, like the others, has been an important factor in the growth of the city. The church has many societies that work in every direction but having a common end in covering the entire ground of charitable work. The present rector is the Rev. G. A. Ottman.

be no more capable judge, placed Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, among the eight great generals of the world, a list which began with Alexander and ended with himself. This great soldier was born in 1504, and when 17, succeeded his father, Charles IX. At his accession, the young King was confronted by the hostility of Denmark, Russia and Poland. After defeating the Danes, he drove the Russians from all the provinces along the Baltic. These victories were succeeded by an eight years' war with Poland and the conquest of a great part of Livonia. In these conquests Gustavus acquired a great stock of experience and a trained army of veterans. In this work, the King was assisted by his great Prime Minister, Oxenstiern. Gustavus once said to his Minister: "You are too phlegmatic, and if somewhat of my heat did not mingle with your phlegm, my affairs would not succeed as well as they do:" to which Oxenstiern answered: "Sire, if my phlegm did not mingle some coolness with your heat, your affairs would not be so prosperous as they are:" where-upon both laughed heartily. That most dreadful war which devastated Germany from 1618 to 1648 was then raging. "Illy and the imperial troops were then committing frightful atrocties in Bohemia. Gustavus at length determined to intervene, and in the summer of 1630 he led into Germany an army of 15,000 men. The Germany were astounded at the strict discip ISundays excepted. 2 Except Monday.

words: "My God!" The news of the King's death maddened his soldiers with the desire for revenge, and they fought with a desperate valor which crowned their efforts with victory. Defaced with wounds, trodden under feet of horses, the body of Gustavus was drawn from beneath a heap of slain, and laid, amid weeping, with his fathers in Sweden. The neighborhood of the place where he fell is marked to this day by a porphyritic boulder, with the simple inscription, G.A., 1632.
